Salford Magazine

"The lyric theatre has the largest stage in the UK outside of London's West end, with seating for 1,730 people."

1 / Salford Quays

The redevelopment of Salford Quays has created a world-class business, cultural and residential area of great national and regional significance. More people now work at the Quays than in its heyday as a major seaport. The area has also become a popular residential area with a regular tram service to West Salford, Altrincham and Manchester city centre. The development of MediaCity:UK will continue to develop the area's vibrant economy, fantastic leisure assets and high quality residential buildings.

Key milestones such as the opening of The Lowry External site in 2000, with its theatres, galleries, shops, bars, restaurant and conference facilities, along with the Digital World Centre and the Lowry Outlet mall and leisure development, have marked a major watershed in the sustainable regeneration of the area.

The Quays has established itself as a tourist destination of choice site with a wealth of world-class entertainment, sporting, leisure and cultural facilities, including the Salford Triathlon World CupExternal site.

Future plans aim to spread the success and vitality of Salford Quays' regeneration into other parts of Salford. The creation of MediaCity:UK, commercial development, the transformation of the river corridor into Irwell City Park, as well as extensive residential developments will help to create a successful business district, international tourism destination and an exciting and vibrant place to live.

2 / The Lowry

The lowery is a combined theatre and gallery in Salford Quays, named after L. S. Lowry know for his industrial paintings.

The complex hpuses a drama studio, two theatre's the Lryic and the quays, host to a wide range of touring plays, comidians and musical events. The lyric theatre has the largest stage in the Uk outside of London's West end, with seating for 1,730 people. The complex also contains a 2000 meatre squared gallert to house around 350 paintings by L. S. Lowry.

Designed by Micheal Wilford and Buro Happold, the building cost £120 million and was compleated in 1999 and was opened on 28th april 2000.

3 / Media City

In 2007 the BBc it would be moveing to a new development on Pier 9, at Salford. The delelopments to be moved are BBC Children's, BBC Children's Learning, BBC Sport, BBC Radio Five Live amd parts of BBC Future Media and Technology involving about 2,300 staff.

The move, expected to be compleated by 2012 and will represent the BBc's largest presence outside London. The arival of the BBc in Salford is expected to attract othe media, brodcasting and film-making companies to the area.

It is claiamed that Mediacity:UK will create up to 10,000 jobs and add £1bn to the reglanal economy over the 5 years after opening,

Ting is a Mandarin word for "an old bandstand." In the Chinese language there are many characters that are pronounced as "Ting" the most common being "to listen."

The Ting Tings are an English Indie pop band made up of Jules De Martino (guitar, drums, and vocals) and Katie White (vocals, bass drum, guitars). Although based in Leigh Greater Manchester, England, the band was established in December 2004, in Castle Irwell, Salford.

Katie White started Her musical career in a three-piece punk rock group Total Knock Out or TKO. Where as, Jules De Martino started out playing in the indie band "Babakoto" at the age of 17. In May of 1994, the group released a single called "Just to Get By." When the band disbanded, Jules De Martino became lead vocals for "Mojo Pin," which is credited for a couple of singles: "You" and "My Imagination" released in 1995 and 1996, respectively.

The pair first met whilst while Katie White was at Leeds University. After several months, they pair met again when Jules visited Manchester. When De Martino became a member of the trio Dear Eskiimo, he relocated to Manchester, but after creative and manergment problems the band split.

Both of them had started to loose trust in the music indestury and decided to join together and create the Ting Tings. The band derived for a college of kates who's first name was Ting, she said that Ting is a Mandarin word for "an old bandstand." In the Chinese language there are many characters that are pronounced as "Ting" the most common being "to listen."

The band carrer started at Islington Mill where Katie worked behind the bar and Jules had produced tracks for various artists.

Ting Ting became one of the most sought after acts in the Manchester party scene. Ting Ting plays in a live band accompanied by a track which is initiated by De Martino's foot due to Katie White's basic guitar skills.

At the recent 2008 MTV Video Music Awards, Ting Tings was nominated for Video of the Year for their single "Shut Up And Let Me Go." They bagged an award for Best UK Video for the same single.

Indie music is becoming a new trend in the British music industry. Short for independent music, it allows artists or groups to utilize their own approach to music since they are not handled by any recording company or label.

I believe that this is the appropriate time to have independent music because artists can have an opportunity to become more famous and showcase their range of music. If they are tied to a recording label, they will not be able to explore their music because they have to follow the dictates of their management company.
